Introduction

“We are engaged in the gigantic task of nation-building in the midst of a troubled and bewildered world. So that we may succeed in this difficult task, we must forge our people into a united, patriotic, God-fearing and contented citizenry; a people influenced by a single devotion—devotion to our native land; a people inspired by a single will—the will to make our country great and a people animated by a single hope—the hope that the Philippines may take her rightful place in the family of nations. For this, we need all the unselfish love, all the unflinching courage, all the reserve wisdom, all the clear vision, and all the patient devotion of which we are capable.”

I. HAVE FAITH IN DIVINE PROVIDENCE

That guides the destinies of men and nations.

II. LOVE YOUR COUNTRY

For it is the home of your people, the seat of your affections, and the source of your happiness and well-being. Its defense is your primary duty. Be ready at all times to sacrifice and die for it if necessary.

A black and white portrait of Manuel L. Quezon, a prominent figure in Philippine politics. He is shown from the chest up, wearing a dark suit, a white shirt, and a tie. His hair is neatly styled, and he has a serious expression. The background is dark and out of focus.

I would rather have a country run like hell by Filipinos than a country run like heaven by the Americans, because however a bad Filipino government might be, we can always change it.
